Van Nuys Leaders First on Schedule

BY RICK MARKS, Editor

As part of its community relations program for the Spring semester, Valley College held the first in a series of community luncheons Wednesday in the Cafeteria for Van Nuys civic leaders. The luncheon gave Valley College administrators the opportunity to inform the community leaders of the educational program of the college. Leo Garapedian, who is public relations director at Valley, made all the arrangements.

William N. Kopley Jr., president of Valley College, presented an over-all view of the total structure of higher education in California, and outlined the functions assigned by the Master Plan for Higher Education to the state university, state college and junior college.

Educational Program
Dr. Stewart Marsh, dean of instruction, spoke to the guests on the educational program of Valley College. He explained in detail the number and type of transfers in the college's major and occupational curriculum. Dr. Marsh's speech included both the day and evening divisions. William Lewis, dean of student activities, spoke on Social Aspects of the College.

Speaking on the characteristics of the students who attend Valley College, Dr. John Reiter, dean of admissions and guidance, was the final speaker of the noon luncheon. His talk outlined the educational services provided by the college to assist the student in his educational program.

Guests attending the luncheon were Jack Anderson, assistant to the Ted Balzer, industrial relations manager, U.S. Engineering; and Harold White, president, Van Nuys Kiwanis Club.

Community Leaders

Also in attendance were Ray Minner, Van Nuys Rotary Club; Mrs. Merrill Friend, area director, League of Women Voters; Mrs. Penny Greer, Van Nuys Business and Professional Association; Richard Lithgow, president, and Fred Raio, Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce; Irv Ryder, incoming vice president, chairman of education committee last year; and Dr. Marie Linville, member of board of directors, Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce.

Each guest was escorted to the luncheon by a member of the two campus service clubs, Knights and Coronets.

President Kopley gave the reason for the community relations program. "Because Valley College is the community college in this area, we felt a need for a more active public relations program in the form of bringing community leaders to the campus."

Last fall the college began its program by inviting assemblymen, because of their importance in deciding the future of the junior college.

Eventually, every community in the geographical area of Valley will be invited to a luncheon. "This will enable us to get direct personal contact with the community leaders, and get them acquainted with the college," said Kopley.

VC Holds One Act Contest

Valley College will host the second annual high school one-act play tournament sponsored jointly by the National Thesplan Society and the TA department of Valley. The tournament will begin Feb. 25 and run through March 1 in the Little Theater daily from 3:30 p.m. through 10 p.m. It will feature plays performed by Southern California high schools.

Patterned after the state high school play tournament at the Pasadena Playhouse, the Valley contest is unique in that the judges hold a public critique on the stage following the performances each day.

Leon Ames Featured

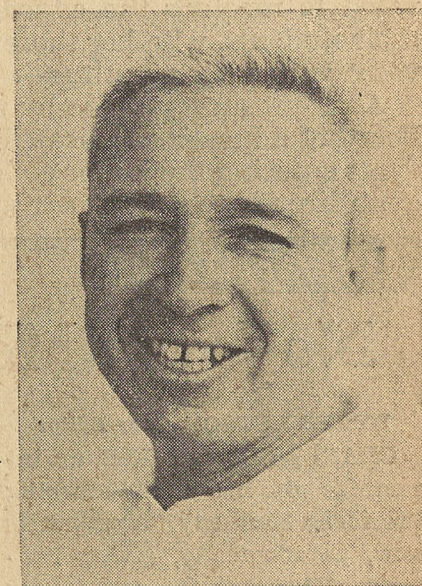

The distinguished stage and screen actor Leon Ames will be the featured speaker on Friday evening.

Schools scheduled to participate in the tournament are as follows: Monday, Feb. 25, Sunny Hills High School, Fullerton, Don Bosco Tech, Jefferson High School, South Gate, San Pedro and Grant; Tuesday, Feb. 26, Savanna, Anaheim, Norwalk, Los Angeles, Jordan, Long Beach, Polytechnic High and North Hollywood High; Wednesday, Feb. 27, Bakersfield, San Bernardino, Santa Barbara, Huntington Park, Hollywood and Reseda High; and Thursday, Feb. 28, Pomona, Salesian High, Simi Valley, Eagle Rock, Fairfax and Monroe High. Additional high schools participating in the event include La Mirada, Pasadena, Franklin and Herbert Hoover.

Began Last Fall

The plays to be presented are well-known, originals and cuts from three act plays not exceeding a half hour in length.

Judges for the competition for the different nights will include Gene Raymond, Dr. James Brock of San Fernando State, Victor French, Bert Holland, Thomas Brown of the Pasadena Playhouse, James Butler of USC, Fred Shields and Valley graduate Bob Totten.

Students To Use Music Library

Valley College's music department has recently opened its facilities of the Student Listening Library to the student body.

The listening library is in M 103 and consists of nine turntables, seven for mono and stereo albums and two for 78's. There are about 200 albums in all, mostly concert repertory, and a few miscellaneous records. Students can also bring their own long play albums.

The hours that the listening library is open are 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday. Seventy-eight can also be played at any time between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m., Monday through Friday.

VC Voters Elect Spring Officers In Close Balloting

BY BRENT CARRUTH, Managing Editor

After weeks of campaigning and two elections, sophomore and freshman class officers were decided by Valley voters this week.

The sophomore race was decided in Monday's balloting with Lee Drabin becoming victorious over running-mate Richard Ryder. Drabin's victory came with a divided vote of 75 to 41.

"I would like to publicly thank those who helped in my campaign and those that voted for me," said Drabin. "My first job is to appoint the new officers that will serve on the sophomore council, and my next task will be to make a few changes in the sophomore council, also."

Suggestions Invited

Drabin also said, "If any student has any problem, suggestion or idea that he needs solved or wants an answer to, he is welcome to put a note in my box in the Student Activities Center. Then I can talk to the student that made the suggestion."

Obtaining office in the freshman ranks was more difficult than in the sophomore classifications. At Star deadline Sig Craig and Rick Friedman were preparing for yesterday's finals.

Freshman Battle

In the preliminary battle for freshman class president, Rick Friedman held a three-vote margin over Sig Craig, and Brian Chipton, the third candidate, was eliminated by nearly 50 votes.

Valley voters chose Stuart Barlow to represent the class as freshman vice president, but his victory was anything but a landslide. In fact, Barlow captured the election over Al Plotkins by a narrow 129 to 125 margin.

The gap of votes for the vice presidency was never large. The lead and victory was not assured for Barlow until late in the count.

Roz Krevitz, running unopposed for the secretary post, was elected by her peers. "We only had to count a few votes," said William E. Lewis, dean of student activities, "for Roz Krevitz got the needed majority after we counted a few of the votes."

Not surprisingly, another closely contested contest was the battle for the control of the lower class purse-strings. Larry Golden defeated Sally Smith by a 134-108 margin, and he will take charge of money matters for the class.

New Council

Recently the Executive Council appointed the spring semester council which will represent Valley and plan various activities and events.

Colleen Ferguson was appointed commissioner of student activities, Marilyn McMahon will take on the corresponding secretary job, the evening division will be under Howard Marks and Ben Bartolotti will take over as commissioner of scholastic activities.

Handling men's and women's athletics will be Bob Guy, commissioner of men's athletics, and Sharon Case, commissioner of women's athletics.

Phase III To Finish In Fall

Sixty per cent of the work on Phase III construction program has now been completed, and the rest will be finished by early November, according to Robert Cole, dean of special services.

The $1,950,000 project includes the Art Building, Math-Science Building, Business-Journalism Building, Planetarium, sanitary facilities and health office.

One of the recent steps to be completed is the fitting of the three-layer planetarium dome. The three layers consist of an outer aluminum dome, a wooden framework and a perforated inner dome, which serves as a screen to show star positions.

Reproduced Effects

Light wells located around the circumference of the inner dome allow the different effects of night and day to be reproduced. The dome, which was provided by Federal government funds, was prefabricated by the Overly Manufacturing Company at their Greengrove, Pa., plant.

Spitz Laboratories Inc. will install the planetarium's projector in about two months. The projector is already on campus but will not be installed until the building is nearer completion.

When the planetarium is finished a new course in astronomical observation will be added to the curriculum. Besides the observation and projection equipment, the planetarium will also include a weather station.

Health Office Moved

The health office has already been moved to the Administration Building as a part of Phase III.

Lathing, which precedes plastering, is now being done on the buildings. Work on all the buildings in Phase III has been done by the Merco Construction Company.

Department representatives were instrumental in the interior design of the facilities, Cole said. "They all met with architects to determine individual department needs."

The Phase IV construction program will be dependent upon the May bond issue.

SYMBOLIZING SUPPORT—Tagging a basketball, Valley College IOC members flank Jack Easton, IOC president (center, in suit) to encourage student support of tonight's basketball game in the Men's Gym. This semester one of the organization's basic goals will be stimulation of college extra curricular events.

Active Clubs Rejuvenate IOC

BY SHIRLEY PAUL, Club Editor

In an attempt to rejuvenate athletic spirit at Valley, IOC club members have made a special effort this week to invite their instructors to the last basketball game of the season.

"We need support for our athletes," says Jack Easton, Valley's new IOC president. Due to the lack of interest of the previous games, instructors have been asked to help rekindle Valley spirit.

"I know the clubs have been unhappy about the lack of spirit and enthusiasm on campus, but together we are in a position where we can do something about it," says Easton.

Action Started

Since he took over his new office three weeks ago, Easton has started the ball rolling for a better inter-club organization. "Club attendance in IOC dropped rather low last semester because of the lackadaisical approach toward organization," said IOC's new president. To prove his statement Easton stated that nine clubs were active at the end of the Fall semester. They were the German club, Home Economics club, International club, TAE, Sports Car club, VABS, Valley Techs, Coronets and Knights.

Going on a rejuvenation campaign to rebuild IOC as an active organization on campus, Easton used Phase I of his rejuvenation plan and spoke to individual club members whose clubs had fallen by the wayside. At his first IOC meeting of the spring semester five clubs were re-activated. They were SCTA, Art club, Newman club, AWS and AMS.

Best Club Day

The first activity IOC sponsored this semester was Club Day, which was one of the best in Valley history.

Library To Close Saturdays Unless Interest Increases

This is the last semester the library will be open on Saturdays unless students prove they need this advantage. Feb. 1, all secondary school students were banned from using the facility from 6 to 10 p.m., except those with student body cards from Valley, according to Mrs. June Biermann, head librarian, and Richard Mohan, supervising librarian of the evening division.

"We opened the library Saturdays at the request of the student body. Attendance has dropped off to the extent where we are seriously considering terminating Saturdays. But we are trying to keep it open one more semester, since the expenditure is already on the budget," said Mrs. Biermann.

Steps Taken

The library staff does not want to deprive the serious secondary student of the use of the library, it was stated. The directive is a result of Valley student interest and demand for the maintenance of a studious atmosphere in the library, especially at night. The school's facility is a student-centered business. State College has taken the same steps this school is taking, said Mohan.

"One of the reasons for socializing by secondary students is the fact that parents will not allow them to go out socially on school nights," Mohan also said, "but the parents do not protest if they go to the library."

Volumes Selected

There are 41,000 volumes of carefully selected groups of books which are chosen in relation to the courses offered here.

State College students compliment Valley on its library because of the pertinent and useable collection of books. During a check made in the library by the librarians, they found students from 28 different schools.

PARKING THREAT

Students parking in the Valley Cities' Jewish Community Center's lot, located on Burbank Blvd., directly across from Valley, are subject to penalties. The parking area is small and is designed for VCJCC personnel only, and the Center urges all Valley students to park in their own area.

Back stage, after the applause silenced on Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist Harrison Salisbury's Athenaeum lecture "The Conflict Between Russia and China," Salisbury paused a few moments to answer some questions asked by this reporter in addition to those posed by the audience.

Salisbury said the deeper implications of the China-Russia rift has yet to be revealed. "Probably," he said, "one of the most startling parts of the dispute is that Americans could not conceive of a split in the two great Asian empires. But," explained Salisbury, "if one studies the history of Communism it has repeatedly been one of struggle and violent quarrels wherever it has been established."

"Russia and China basically dislike each other," Salisbury said. "There is more of a nationalistic struggle between the countries than an ideological conflict. Moreover, in China, Communism is not the chief issue. China has 700 million mouths to feed and not enough food to go around." He elaborated by stating the only way under these conditions for any power to exist in China is by employing constant terror and hatred to a hungry populace.

established."

"After generations of hard work and poverty, Russia is a rising economic country," Salisbury said. This is a decisive factor in their policies, for a complete rift with China would mean a nuclear war with them, a war Russia won't risk, he said.

Salisbury Speaks on Crisis

On Russian feelings toward the Common Market, Salisbury commented, "Russia will be quite unhappy if the Common Market materializes for she has a form of market within her own sphere of influence in which a European Market would be a threat." Concerning De Gaulle's action in the European Market, he said, "Of course it is much too early to tell the outcome of France's action, although it may thwart the entire scheme of the Market." Salisbury stated the belief that France is merely asserting her position in Europe as a world power.

In closing, Salisbury commented on the upcoming generation of young, educated Russians, "They are rebelling from older policies and ideas."

No School Tomorrow

Tomorrow is George Washington's birthday. In tribute, there will be no school. Washington, first President, statesman and soldier, born in 1732, was a prime cultivator of American government and tradition.

Prof. Cabral's Work Chosen

Flavio Cabral, art professor, has been included in Bentley Schaad's book, "The Realm of Contemporary Still Life Painting." Cabral's contribution is called "Four Shells" and is a "variation of central image." Prof. Cabral is a prominent Southern California artist.

Grades Available Today

Final grades for students attending Valley last semester can be picked up at the admission office today, according to Albert Caligiuri, counselor. Grades not picked up by Feb. 28 will be mailed to the student's home.

Pay Telephones Stolen

Some time after 4 p.m. last Sunday, Valley College was robbed of three pay telephones. Breaking the glass in the door, the thieves gained entrance at the north door of the main corridor of the Administration building. A crowbar or similar implement was then used to pry the telephones off the wall. Apparently nothing else in the building was disturbed.

Data Processing Lecture Today

"Careers in Data Processing" will be the topic of today's Occupational Exploration Series sponsored by the Valley Associated Business students. The meeting will be held in C 100 at 11 a.m.

Speaker for the lecture will be Drew Burgoyne of International Business Machines Corporation, where he is employed in the sales division of data processing.

Though courses in data processing are now being offered only at night, it is the hope of the business department to open several day courses in data processing next semester, both for those who want a career in data processing as a programmer, and those with a business major who should familiarize themselves and have a knowledge of its techniques.

Among the equipment used to teach data processing, Valley has its own IBM 1620 computer.

Feb. 26 Dr. John Gaffey will present "Occupational Opportunities for Economists." Gaffey is an economist with the anti-trust division for the U.S.

Washington Symbolizes Patriotism

Patriotism is an intangible force. It is like a faith. It cannot be touched, and surrounding factors and passion for ideals promote its effect. It is the support of a land by people with love and courage.

Tomorrow Americans commemorate a man whose life was epitomized as being "First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen." George Washington, American Revolutionary soldier and statesman, first President, cultivator of a healthy governmental scheme, is synonymous with patriotism.

Feb. 22 has been set aside for a meaning. It's not just a day off, but a day for personal tribute to a man significant in America's beginning and the America of today.

How many will take time to pay tribute to George Washington tomorrow? How many have ever?

What would happen if suddenly a stone wall were erected around the United States; if the presses were stopped; if entrances to churches were closed; and if Americans could no longer speak their minds or vote? What would be the results of the void of freedoms, taken for granted and paid for yesterday?

Would Americans, 1963, shut their eyes? The answer is "no." The past has proved this. Patriotism, an intangible force, needs only a spark to flare.

To have pride and faith in an ideal, a country, a land is no crime. The true crime is to waste away in ignorance, ignorance in the act of not comparing today with yesterday, not realizing that today, 1963, isn't such a far cry in years from a cold pesthole called Valley Forge.

One day Americans, 1963, will be interwoven in tomorrow's history. What will historians have to say?

Tomorrow is the birthday of George Washington, a man like many men who throughout their lives surveyed the wilderness of America, sparking ideals that have made America AMERICA. —BEN ROSE

Vidio Screen Suffering From Mediocrity

BY DENISE MANDELLA, City Editor

WHILE NEWTON MINOW belittles about the lack of worthwhile programs on American television, a Soviet critic is chastising his country's video presentations as suffering from "grayness and clichés."

L. Karelin, a Soviet television writer, stated in an article in "Sovetskaya Kultura," that Soviet television lacked originality and imagination as well as being a haven for rejected movie and theater plays.

Cited as an example of the clichés, Karelin described a series which once featured informal round table discussions and interviews, but now had degenerated into a closely-prepared formal show. "What can be worse than rehearsed spontaneity," Karelin said.

SOVIET TELEVISION now features one show on public affairs which presents leading newspaper and political commentators discussing events in the international field. In commenting on this show Karelin explained, "the absence of genuine debate and differences of viewpoint" caused the show to be of little worth.

The obvious political problems faced by any form of Soviet communications can immediately be recognized. But what also becomes apparent is the video screen is universally suffering from an acute case of mediocrity. American television is not bound by the political strings which tie the Soviet programming—yet both seem to suffer identical dilemmas.

LATELY THERE has been a valiant attempt on the part of several American television networks to break the bonds which hold the media in second-rate esteem.

CBS pioneered the effort with several informative Leonard Bernstein concerts. They also presented an excellent show on Russian literature from Chekhov to Pasternak and most recently a chronicle of the works and life of Charles Dickens.

A PUBLIC AFFAIRS effort was embarked on when NBC presented the "White Paper" series. The series featured an outstanding four-part documentation of Communism; the first one on Stalin, the second the rise of Khrushchev with the remaining two to be aired this month.

Although ABC rarely departs from its highly commercialized format, their serialized presentation of Winston Churchill's six volume epic on World War II deserves an honorable mention.

After taking an informal poll of students, whose interest in this fare should be obvious, my suspicions of why America receives a diet of cowboys and situation comedies were confirmed. No one seemed aware of the fact that these programs were presented, excepting one student who said he watched one of the shows because "nothing good was on" at that time.

Television stations operate on the American business creed of "making money." As long as the public demonstrates apathy toward the cultural and informative show, it will be served a diet of "Gunsmoke" and "Donna Reed."

KARELIN said television is "a fundamentally new art only if it stopped feeding on what had already been done on movie screens and on the stage." Sophisticated video programs can only survive with a receptive audience—a public which wants to cure television's acute case of mediocrity.

Warning Signs Varied at Lehigh

(ACP)—Drivers on the campus of Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa., discovered a change in the signs that for a few years have warned of bumpy roads ahead.

Earlier in the week the "slow" signs, normally a bluish shade of yellow, had been painted white, and no new printing had been placed on their faces.

Some unknown individuals painted these new warnings on the signs:

"Achtung! You are now leaving the American zone" and "Achtung! You are now leaving the Russian zone."

Building and grounds men were out early the next morning trying to remove the bold, black letters. Efforts proved unsuccessful until several coats of white paint were used to cover the printing.

Because of the menaces facing the United States, education becomes even more important than it was in the era just passing. The ever-increasing dropout rate is, therefore, a great concern to everyone, and consequently more and more studies are being conducted on the subject.

Last summer Dr. Helena Hilleary, assistant dean of the evening division, compiled the figures that she had taken during the spring semester on dropouts.

"Figures themselves do not tell much," Dr. Hilleary said, "for there are many reasons why students dropout—reasons beyond their control."

A great majority of the evening students who quit were hindered by their jobs, according to the assistant dean. In fact, 40 per cent were working overtime, and 34 per cent had their working hours changed. The startling fact is that over half of the drops incurred during the spring semester came from those working more than 40 hours a week, and the next largest number were those who were working 40 hours per week.

There were many reasons listed by each individual as the cause for dropping out of school. Dr. Hilleary pointed out the most frequent reasons for leaving college:

• ACADEMIC REASON was the cause listed by 41 per cent of the students.

• ECONOMIC DIFFICULTIES

Lewis Transfers Office For Good of Students

BY RICK MARKS, Editor

IT WAS NOT a difficult decision for William E. Lewis, dean of student activities, when he decided that he would move his quarters from his beautiful office in the Administration Building to a bungalow near the student center. He simply weighed what was best for the Valley College students and then acted—in their behalf.

DEAN LEWIS has been at Valley since last September, and in that time has done everything in his power to build a strong student activities program at Valley. His latest decision was made solely for this purpose.

"I made my move with the full understanding that it would cut my effectiveness with the faculty and administration, but, of course, it will give me a greater contact with the student—something that was missing when my office was in the Administration Building."

The dean explained that the move is only temporary, because next year, when the new Student Center is built and the main center of student activities shifts back to the center of the campus, he will return to his old office.

DEAN LEWIS has been in his new location now for almost three weeks and sees a great change already. "For the first time since I came to Valley I am really having contact with the students. Today, for instance, I walked outside and 12 people stopped to chat with me. I can't be here in the office more than half an hour without some group or single student dropping in. It's wonderful."

Back in the Ad. Building things were different. "Not that nothing happened there, because there's always the phone. But that's not the way to conduct the job of student activities. All in all, though, things were pretty quiet over there."

BECAUSE OF his move Dean Lewis is the only dean on campus whose office is not located in the Ad. Building. "But I still retain my parking spot there, and each morning I wander through and talk over various things with the other administrators." Before he finally gets over to "his bungalow," Dean Lewis makes sure he has touched all the important areas of the campus, including the mail room, business office, men's gym and others.

When he came to Valley, Dean Lewis felt that the Student Center was not adequate for student activities. An accreditation report on the campus echoed the same sentiments. So, during the summer, together with the student council and with the approval of President William J. McNelis, the Dean obtained bungalows 24-26 for the purpose of a temporary Student Center until the permanent structure under Phase IV construction is built.

DURING HIS administrative career Dean Lewis has held many jobs, ranging from junior college supervisor, personnel division of the seven junior colleges, to coordinator of the student activities and the off-campus program at Los Angeles Metropolitan College of Business.

We asked him how his current post compares with others he has held. The Dean gave us this refreshing answer:

"Some years ago a woman from the Herald-Express spoke at my junior college on 'What is the Best Time of Your Life.' I was surprised then, as I am today, that people will say that it was in high school, or college, or any other time in the past. Because for me the best time, and the most important time is right now. The thing I am doing today is the best thing."

DEAN LEWIS stopped a moment and then began again. "Every step I've taken has been an improvement, and I could not ask for a better job than this one at Valley."

Valley, I doubt, could ask for a more dedicated or qualified dean.

LIONS' ROAR

Dear Editor:

Your column in the Feb. 7 Star is an excellent statement on good teaching. I am going to use it with our faculty. Keep up the good work.

Cordially,
Marie Martin
President, LA Metro College

Sir:

The principle of school responsibility seems to be in direct conflict with the stated goal of the California Federation of Young Republicans' chapter at the Los Angeles Valley College campus. The primary purpose of the Valley College Young Republicans, as openly stated to me by the sponsors and members, is to represent and present their views and ideas at all costs.

As president of the Los Angeles Valley College Young Democrats, I have stated in the constitution of my party the dual purpose: which is to increase school spirit through open debates, speakers and various other activities. I do not think that the school should have to suffer because a "big brother" form of sponsorship seems to have taken over the Valley College Young Republicans.

There were numerous occasions, while I was serving as parliamentarian of L.A. Valley College, to sit in during an IOC meeting. I came away with the impression that the purpose of a club at Valley College was to do its best to spur on school spirit. I spoke out against clubs that didn't have this goal in mind then, and I'd gladly do it again. I think this is the least I can do for a campus that has been very good to me.

I would like to state at this time that if the present officers turn in a constitution with these concepts included, I will personally fight them. In order to avoid this action I suggest the members should run the club and not the sponsors.

Sincerely,
Norrie Wallace
President
Valley College Y.D.'s

COMMENTARY

No Joy in Moscowville for Charlie Is at Bat

BY LEE HUTSON, Copy Editor

CHARLES DE GAULLE, an insomniac who has been disturbing President Kennedy's slumber, is now, paradoxically, giving Premier Khrushchev cause for sleepless nights, too.

In fact, the Franco-German pact that De Gaulle and Germany's octogenarian Chancellor Konrad Adenauer consummated is keeping just about everybody away very nicely, thank you.

AS EVERY SCHOOL GIRL knows, anything that disturbs Capitol Hill tends to soothe the Kremlin. It's sort of traditional. Therefore, De Gaulle's proposed axis with West Germany is unique if for no other reason than it is the first thing Russia and America have agreed on since Seward hoodwinked them out of Alaska. Both dislike it, although for different reasons, of course.

AFTER CENTURIES OF ENMITY, France and Germany decided to bury the hatchet. However, the treaty which pledges both governments to cooperation in defense, foreign policy, education and youth affairs seems more sentimental than serious.

Asked precisely what the treaty added to existing Franco-German ties, a top French official said vaguely, "It depends on what develops." Skeptical newsmen joked that it was a "treaty to come to dinner," and noted the irony in the fact that when the defense ministers of West Germany and France sat down to talk, the only language they had in common was bloody English.

Nevertheless, the Western allies look on the pact as a threat to NATO, and Khrushchev views it as a peril to Khrushchev.

The Kennedy administration is pressing vigorously for assignment of air and sea nuclear striking forces to NATO. The project is being propelled at maximum speed because of De Gaulle's opposition to the plan—opposition he has demonstrated by blocking Great Britain's entry into the Common Market, with the German treaty and several other unpleasanties.

One would imagine that all of this would prompt Premier Khrushchev to break out the vodka in celebration, but there is no joy in Moscowville for mighty Charlie did not strikeout.

RUSSIA FEARS that the Franco-German accord will ultimately see West Germany armed with nuclear weapons. In fact, fear of a rearmament of Germany is one of the Kremlin's most potent weapons in retaining the support of its East European satellites.

The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia, in a stinging attack, proclaimed that "the Soviet Union will never remain impassive in the face of atomic weapons supplied to former Hitler generals." The article depicted France as a self-biting scorpion, and warned that the "evil spirit" of German revanchism is striving to break loose.

In deed, the Paris-Bonn axis has enough stay-awake ingredients to rival the old Jack Parr show.

What will eventually develop depends in no small measure, of course, on the whim and guile of General De Gaulle, and he isn't any hurry to show his hand—what the heck, he can't sleep anyway.

DR. HELENA HILLEARY

caused 31.9 per cent to leave Valley.

PERSONAL-SOCIAL REASONS forced others out of school for at least a semester.

THE REMAINDER of the students fell into different categories. Most of the students who listed academic reasons for dropping school had their main difficulty keeping up in their studies, according to Dr. Hilleary's study. The students who fell into this group number 38 per cent.

Many dropouts could not help becoming a statistic, for they were ill or had other obligations which needed immediate attention," she reported. For example, 25 per cent of the Personal-Social dropouts said that illness caused them to quit and 23 per cent said that family problems forced them to drop.

In the modern society, everyone goes to college, Dr. Hilleary said. "It's the thing to do. Unfortunately not every student is equipped to handle college work, and he falters."

In a recent study numerous students received group orientation, and the program seemed to help, for of the cases observed 91 per cent of those who dropped out had not been in the orientation program. If every beginning student were exposed to group orientation, it would cut down on the dropout rate, according to Dr. Hilleary. "At the present time, however, it is impossible to give everyone in the orientation program. If every just are not enough counselors available," pointed out Dr. Hilleary.

There will never be an answer that will eradicate the entire dropout picture, but improved orientation and more research can greatly cut down on the number. But even today's dropout rate is not as startling as it might seem because people are going to college who had great difficulty getting through high school. The good student flourished as ever, and the poor student has the same trouble that he has had throughout the ages.

Hillel Council To Plan Temple Tours For Spring Semester Activity Agenda

Newly founded Hillel Council of Valley College, which is going into its second semester of activities, will tour the Temple Beth Hillel tomorrow at 8 p.m. The club will also attend the evening services.

The trip is one of a series of temple tours programmed for the remainder of the semester.

Also on the club agenda is an Israeli Dance Class to start March 19. The class will meet every Tuesday at the Valley Cities Jewish Community Center, and class is under the direction of Eddie Schender.

Further information can be obtained from the club's director of student activities, Claire Lobell.

At an installation dance held last month, the newly elected officers were announced. They are Lowell Crystal, president; Ann Kay, vice president; Marilyn Miller, secretary; Mel Dick, treasurer and committee chairman; Bena Stecher, religion; Barbara Axelrod, cultural; Bob Cannon, social; and Sandi Herbst, membership.

Newman Club Plans Spring Fitness Hike

The trend towards physical fitness has hit the Newman Club.

On Feb. 22 as its first activity of the spring semester, the club will have a hike to Cotton Wood Flats.

All participating club members are expected to meet at the college parking lot on Ethel and Burbank at 8 a.m. At that time money will be collected for food.

Sports Car Rally Slated Tomorrow

The Valley College Sports Car Club is planning the first rally of the spring semester tomorrow night, Feb. 22.

Campus Coffee Consumers Consume Many Quantities

BY MIKKI ROHALY, Staff Writer

Are you a campus coffee consumer? If you are, you will be interested to know that this semester you have helped contribute $25,624 to the coffee sellers of Valley College.

It hardly seems possible that a couple of dimes at the cafeteria, or in an automatic machine, could mount up to such a tremendous amount of money, but surprisingly enough, it does.

2,562 Cups a Day

Valley students and faculty members buy approximately 2,562 cups of coffee a day, which amounts to $256.20. (This is including the cafeteria and automatic machines.) On a weekly average students drink 12,812 cups, which brings the cash total to $1,281.20. By the end of the semester the cup total is 256,240, and the cash total $25,624. This is quite a bit of coffee, and quite a bit of money.

However, the average campus coffee consumer feels that a quick cup of coffee works as a stimulant, and

This rally is to welcome all new members. Participants need not have a sports car. The club holds their weekly meeting on Thursdays at 11 a.m. in E 102.

In the recent election Frank McGonigal was elected president; Al Pepe, vice president; Georgia Riggs, secretary; Ken Setty, treasurer; and Bruce Albert, rally master.

Tuesday Meetings Set by Veterans

Valley's Veterans Club is now holding meetings every Tuesday at 11 a.m. in B 46.

Any student with 90 or more days of service in the Armed Forces is eligible for membership. The club's purpose is to provide service men returning to college an opportunity to get acquainted with fellow servicemen and to participate in campus activities.

Persons wishing to enlist can do so by attending a club meeting.

Joint Clubs Plan Hike Over the Hill

The International and German Clubs are planning a hike to Beverly Hills on Saturday, Feb. 23, at 9 a.m. From the hike they will return to the home of Mitch Robinson, president of the International Club, for a get acquainted party that evening.

They are endeavoring to promote more interclub activities to make a better campus and push school events jointly. Together, they feel they can improve attendance at college events.

The International Club made 15 posters, which were approved for the coming elections.

The German Club will hold its traditional "get acquainted" party this Saturday night from 8 to 12 p.m. All new members are invited to attend.

The club is also planning an ice skating party for March 9 from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Iceland skating rink at Van Nuys.

Admission price will be $1.25 per person.

Peace Corps Proves Successful Gamble

BY JUNE WHITE, Staff Writer

Have you ever thought about joining the Peace Corps? Anyone who investigates this prospect will find Counselor Lauren F. Rhoades handles the project at Valley College, and that periodic recruitment examinations are given all over the United States.

Former Valley students in the Corps now are Jerald L. Webster, Bogota, Colombia; Robert Dotson and William A. Ellison, Lima, Peru; and Delores Ducommun in the Philippines.

The whole Peace Corps idea, which has seized the imagination of the young, is comparatively new. The Corps was created by Presidential Order on March 1, 1961 with Sargent Shriver as director. President John F. Kennedy established the Peace Corps to help underprivileged countries in their struggle against poverty, disease, illiteracy and hunger. When Congress enacted legislation in Sept. 1961, and appropriated $30 million to finance the first year of operation, it was the first time in the history of the United States that the possibility existed for persons to enter foreign service on a civilian basis—with the exception, of course, of those persons in the Foreign Service Department.

Congress

Congress set forth the following purpose: "... to promote world peace and friendship through a Peace Corps, which shall make available to interested countries, men and women of the United States qualified for service abroad and willing to serve, under conditions of hardship, if necessary, to help the peoples of such countries and areas in meeting their needs for trained manpower, and to help promote a better understanding of the American people on the part of the people served, and a better understanding of other peoples on the part of the American people."

Any American citizen over 18 years of age, with no dependents under this age may apply for entrance. There is no upper age limit. Wives must accompany husbands, and must have the same skills to work on the

Applicant for the Corps

An applicant for the Corps goes through an extremely thorough screening and training process. The two-phase training program is usually conducted at a college or university, and lasts approximately three months. Its curriculum covers the culture, people and politics of the host country; United States history, institutions and values; international relations; such language training as is appropriate; physical conditioning, health instruction and refresher courses in the skills required for the project. It may also include attendance for a month at Peace Corps Training in Puerto Rico.

The second training phase is conducted by host-country teachers—lasting from two weeks to three months. The purpose here is to give volunteers a solid on-the-spot introduction to traditions and cultures of the people with whom they will work. Longer training programs occur when acquisition of new language skill is essential.

Normal Tour

The normal tour of duty is two years, including training, unless the project requires longer service. Volunteers are advised in advance of the length of service necessary. They receive housing, medical care and all necessary training materials, plus $75 for each month served upon completion of their tour.

A candidate must dedicate himself to the service of others and he must have the conviction, perseverance and stamina to perform that service in the face of hardship and frustration. He must be intelligent enough to meet the challenge of service abroad, healthy enough to cope with new surroundings, and likable enough to bring about good relationships with his fellow workers overseas.

House Committee

Shriver asked the House Committee on Foreign Appropriations for $63,750,000 for the Corps, but the Passman committee cut the amount to $59 million.

Good reports about the Corps are not idle ones and are well merited. Peace Corps Volunteer Robert Burns, an irrigation director, was given credit by the Pakistani press and director of the Academy for Village Development in the town of Comilla, for saving a rice crop for the first time in seven years, valued at three-quarters of a million dollars, by a flood control project he organized in East Pakistan.

Art Club Display Wins Top Award

An original art display by the students in the club helped the Art Club take top honors at the semi-annual Valley College Club Day last Thursday.

Coronets, honorary service organization for women, took second place with their shoe shine and bake sale. Third place was awarded to the German and International Club jointly. German Club members displayed various ski equipment and held a fencing demonstration. Karate was the center of attraction for International Club enthusiasts. A demonstration was given by various black-belt experts.

Although the Coronets are unable to win first place because it is a service club, it still placed high on the judges' list.

Robert N. Cole, dean of special services, and William E. Lewis, dean of student activities, shared the judging honors. Clubs were judged on originality, student body interest, presentation, quality, and appropriateness. The booths were evaluated numerically from one to five points, one being poor; two fair; three average; four, good; and five, excellent.

This is one of the first years that a smaller club has taken first place away from the larger and more active clubs on campus.

Budgeting Explained

BY ERIC JENSEN, Staff Writer

The Business Office is known by most Valley College students as a place where $6.50 of their hard earned money disappears across a counter each semester and a bursar is just another word committed to the depths of Webster's Dictionary.

It might be interesting to note that there are people just beyond the short distance of counter space and such a person is Conley Gibson, Valley College's bursar or treasurer.

The almost impossible and infinitely complicated task of keeping a budget is well known to all, but just imagine keeping track of a $150,000 budget that has over 20 departmental budgets incorporated into it.

The coordination of the budget is in reality just a small facet of the work done in the Business Office. All purchases made with student body money (literally thousands), ranging from paper clips for the Journalism Department to bleachers for the football stadium, are made through the Business Office and all have Gibson's personal approval.

More Than Accounting Machine

The Business Office is more than an accounting machine and as Gibson points out, "The needs of the student are primary importance."

"Ordinarily the Business Office is not open in the evenings, but to render the service we feel is necessary to the students at this time (the new semester) the hours are extended."

The fact that the employees have the interests of the students at heart is evidenced by the fact that a 15 to 16-hour work day (without compensation) is not uncommon during the first two weeks of each new semester.

The many departments are the backbone of any college and the Business Office is only one department on Valley's campus that works to make Valley College the type of academic institution it is today.

Librarians' Works Published

Two Valley College librarians, Mrs. June Biermann and Mrs. Barbara Toohey, have had articles published in two magazines this month. The pair, writing as one person under the name of Margaret Bennett, published two stories in February, one story in the Atlantic Monthly and the other in the Saturday Review.

The article in the Saturday Review is entitled "Teaching Is Better With."

Education Courses

The story points out that education courses are criticized by teachers, students, university professors and Admiral Rickover. The general consensus is that courses are nothing but hurdles of boredom and worthlessness designed to keep intellectuals out of a profession where they are desperately needed, the article states.

The teacher in the story concurred with this opinion until she graduated from UCLA at the height of the teaching shortage and attempted to teach four second grade classes of "sown enemies" with the only successful event of the day being the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag.

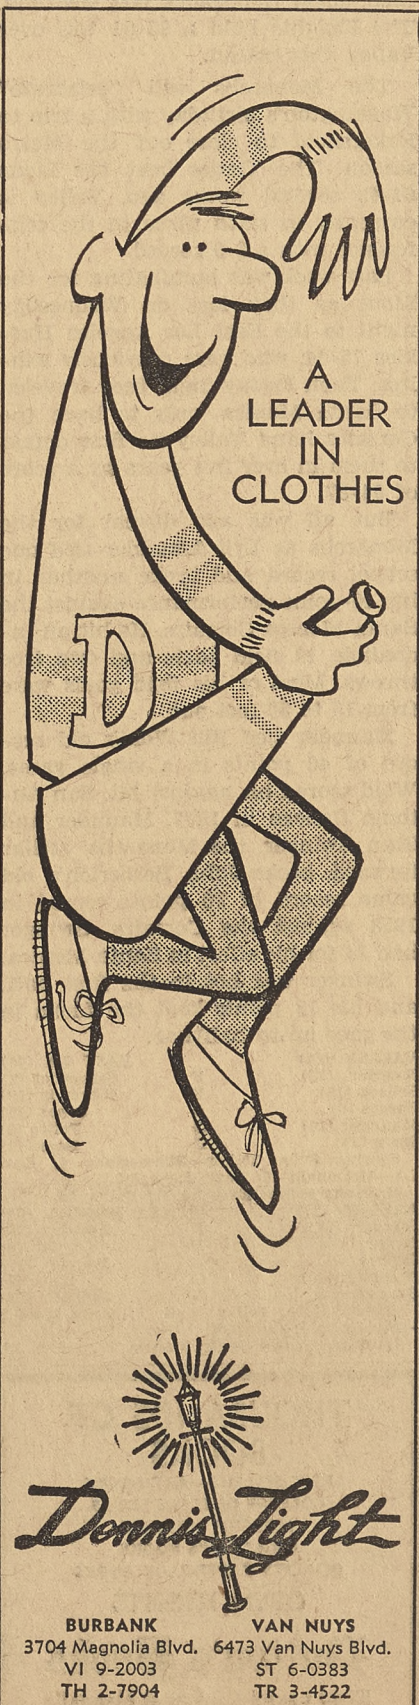

Teaching Manual

Although the teaching manual outlined what she was supposed to teach, the book gave no idea of "how" to teach. She found she lacked the knowledge to teach "manuscript," a form of printing; concrete examples of arithmetic; the ability to teach music lessons with the only instrument available, an autoharp; the artistic ability to keep clay from turning to stone overnight, or how to mix tempera paints so they wouldn't turn sour and attract flies; and finally, with a good educational film library, she couldn't run a film projector.

"I have taught with education courses and without education course, and, believe me, with it, it's better. For just as an architect who wants to design a Guggenheim Museum must, in his college years, learn plumbing specifications, a teacher who wants to plant the kiss of the gods on the foreheads of his students has first to learn how to keep them sitting still long enough to make contact."

Tracksters Invade Glendale In Quest of Second Win

BY ROGER KARRAKER, Assistant Sports Editor

What may be the roughest test for the Monarch track team all year is set for today as Coach George Ker's squad meets the Glendale Vaqueros on the Vaq field.

Boasting strength in all events to rival the Monarchs, Glendale may pace Valley athletes to record performances in several events. Closest competition between the two schools appears to be in the sprints where 9.5 sprinter Herman Harville and 9.7 Stan Emery will face Glendale's Pat McKinna and Ralph Turner. McKinna has turned 9.8 in the 100-yard and a 21.9 in the 220-yard this year, while Turner has no times.

Emery Upsets Harville

Last week against the UCLA Frosh Emery nosed out Harville in winning the 100 in 9.9. Harville was timed in 10.1.

Highlight of the unofficial meet with UCLA was freshman Otis Burrell's record-breaking high jump. Burrell cleared 6 feet, 7 1/2 inches to break Sy Ornstein's school record of 6 feet, 6 1/4 inches. However, since the competition with UCLA was unofficial, Ornstein's school record still stands.

Dick Krenzer was also hurt by the meet, as he broke his own school record in the two mile. After finishing third in the mile, Krenzer easily stripped the field in the two-mile, as he toured the eight laps in 9:32.8, eight-tenths of a second off his record.

Vags Strong

Glendale's strength in the 440, 880 and mile figure to give the Vags those events, while Burrell's performance in the high jump gives him the nod over 6-5 Vag jumper Steve Miller. In the hurdles Dave Irons and Ron White, each of whom nailed one victory over UCLA have turned in consistently better times than Glendale's Don Pierce, younger brother of USC hurdler Bob Pierce.

Lions Play Final Tilts

BY STU ORECK, Sports Editor

Tonight looms as a great challenge for the Valley College basketball team, as it will face the San Diego Knights, who have all but wrapped up the Metropolitan Conference crown with a 65-47 victory over the Bakersfield Renegades last weekend. The Knights hold a 63-51 win over Valley this season.

The Monarchs will "celebrate" Washington's birthday with a trip to Bakersfield to close out the Metro season. The Gades beat the Lions 64-43 several weeks ago. Valley is currently in sixth place in the conference with a 3-9 record.

Last week was humiliating for the Lions as they lost on Wednesday night to the East Los Angeles Huskies 75-64, who were previously winless. Then Friday night they traveled to Santa Monica, only to have the Corsairs hand Valley its first defeat to them in over five years by a score of 94-87.

But all was not dismal for the Monarchs as Lyle Maunder tied one school record and broke another in his 40-point performance against the Santa Monica Corsairs. He hit an incredible 19 field goals and two free throws. Most of his field goals were from 15 to 30 feet out.

Maunder tied Bill Wold's old record of 40 points in a single game. Wold scored his against Mt. San Antonio College in 1957. Maunder and Stan Swinger, the Monarchs' stellar forward, broke John Berberich's old game record of 30 points scored in 1958 against the Corsairs. Swinger had 34 for his effort in Santa Monica.

Swinger was hot in the first half, and his 18 points kept the Lions in the race up to halftime.

INTRAMURALS

Those interested in playing intramural volleyball should sign up now in the Physical Education office. Coach Ray Follosco is in charge of the event and can be contacted at Ext. 206.

Today at 11 a.m. there will be a meeting of team managers and individuals not on a team in the conference room (across from the P.E. Office). All teams that wish to compete must have a representative at this meeting.

Vaqueros Shellack Monarchs

Spring has not been kind to the Valley baseball team as they took a 13-3 shellacking at the hands of the Glendale Vaqueros Monday afternoon at Valley in their initial contest of the season.

Today the Monarchs travel to Pierce in an attempt to avenge last year's defeat to the Brahmas. Then on Tuesday Chaffey College invades Valley for a 2:30 p.m. encounter.

Pierce Leads in Series

Against Pierce, Valley has won 7 out of 17 games. But against Chaffey, the Monarchs have a perfect record (1-0).

Monday's game started off like any ball game with the players making the plays, pitchers getting the ball over the plate and managers wondering which team would break loose first.

Valley's John Doyle pitched good ball for two innings, but in the third Gary Ball came in, and within one inning-plus he had given up seven runs. Only two of the runs were earned as the fielding behind him fell apart.

Vags Use Only Two

Glendale used just two pitchers in beating the Lions. Winning pitcher was Ken Gore, who went three innings, giving up no runs and striking out two. His relief, Ron Shields, went five innings giving up three earned runs and striking out seven. Losing pitcher was Ball.

Outstanding hitters for Valley were newcomer Spencer Atkins, who in the fourth inning hit Valley's first home run of the season and added a single later. Fred Brockway at third base for the Lions had two singles, and Steve Ariga, all-Metro last year, had one-for-four times at bat.

Valley Swordsmen Take 3rd In UCLA Fencing Tourney

Valley's fencing team, under the direction of John Tatum, captured third place at the UCLA Second Annual Fencing Invitational for college men and women.

The competition was held Feb. 16 and 17 with Valley the defending champion. Last year the Monarchs won over 13 other colleges to capture the William Randolph Hearst trophy.

Fritz Winter, current collegiate sabre champion of the Western States, led the Monarchs in sabre, foil and epee competition. Winter has won several gold medals in the foil and epee divisions.

Ties for First

After tying for first at UCLA, Winter placed second in individual sabre competition. He finished behind Karl Dempwolf from San Fernando Valley State, a former member of Valley's fencing squad. Last year Valley took first place over SFVS by only one point.

Teammates Dan Teschler and Adelbert Klugkist joined Winter in the sabre team division. After a three-way tie for first place, the Monarch's team came out third in

New Records Set In Easy Swim Win

BY TED WEISGAL, Staff Writer

Further onslaught at the swimming record book continues tomorrow at the University of Southern California where Valley College takes on the Trojan Frosh at 4 p.m.

The 1963 version of rewriting the record books began last Friday as Valley's Ken Merten set two school records.

While the Monarch swimmers dumped Orange Coast College in the Pirates' pool gutter, 62-33, Merten was attempting to set a new national junior college record.

Although his attempt was eight-tenths of a second off in the 200-yard breaststroke, he obliterated the school mark.

Merten Smashes Record

His time of 2:21.2 was 6.1 seconds better than the Valley College record set last year. Merten's personal best in the 200 is 2:16.0.

In Merten's only solo swim of the afternoon, he won the 200-yard individual medley (consisting of the backstroke, breaststroke, butterfly and freestyle), establishing another Valley College record. The time, 2:11.4, bettered the old record by 3.6 seconds.

Even though this was the first meet of the season, the records were expected. Merten is rated as one of the top breaststrokers and individual medley men in the nation.

McGrath Praises Merten

Team manager Jim McGrath, who last year set national JC 50 and 100-yard freestyle records, but has used up his two years of eligibility, says of Merten, "He has a good chance of making the U.S. team for the Pan American Games this year, and for making the Olympic team in 1964."

Metropolitan Conference three-meter board diving champion Bob Whitworth doubled the points scored by his Orange Coast opponents in winning the event which was held on the five-meter board.

Sato Wins

John Sato, a winner in the 200-yard butterfly, is a prime candidate for a school, conference or national record in the near future. His time, 2:13.8, compared favorably with the school record of 2:10.3 set in 1959 by Jerry Lipman. In the near future it is probable that he will break the school record.

During the conference season, team members will swim only in their specialties. In the non-conference meet last week non-scoring swimmers were swimming for practice in many events.

Matmen To End Conference Play

After dropping its last three matches, Valley College's wrestling team will travel to El Camino Saturday for the Metropolitan Conference Meet. Tuesday the Monarchs finished the Metro season at San Diego.

Valley met Pierce in a scrimmage last Friday, although no score was kept, the Monarchs would have come out on top. Coach Nick Giovanazzo's squad has improved a great deal, as six weeks ago they lost to Pierce. Against Pierce Al Silver, Steve Hawks, Jim Vickers and Bob Magdeleno all took victories.

Golfers Sink Ventura; Face El Camino Next

Valley's golf team won its match with Ventura Monday 40-14. Each school was represented by six men on the team plus two extra players. Arne Dokka, Bob Teeter, Pat Teel, Vic Kelley, Matt Stankovich and Ric Lavick played for Valley.

The golf team meets El Camino Monday, Feb. 25 in the first conference match of the season. The match will be held at 1 p.m. at El Camino.

Freestyle specialist Dave Dixon is a chief example. He was entered in the 400-yard medley relay and the 500-yard freestyle. He also swam in the 100-yard free and the 200-yard butterfly.

Pirates Win Three

Because of the extra practice the Monarch swimmers were given by Coach Mike Wiley, Orange Coast picked up three firsts which might have been doubtful under other conditions.

Charlie Douglas picked up a first in the 500 freestyle against Dixon, who swam the 200 butterfly about 10 minutes earlier.

During one of the first events of the afternoon, Douglas finished second to Valley's Steve Meyer in the 200-yard free.
